How would you like an option so one of the three (or one extra) panel of the MIO console to contain exclusively the Cue controls and the Monitor Control, instead of the floating ones? It's a little bit annoying to have two extra windows to select and/or reposition if the screen estate is limited. Check out my suggestion in the jpeg. It reminds me the big consoles with the master controls in the middle and it looks tidy. Let me know your thoughts!

Interestingly, it was originally like that and our beta testers strongly requested that we put it into separate windows.

I guess we should add an option to allow you to dock it into the main window.
