I'm thinking about getting either the ULN2 or RME fireface UC. It looks like the ULN2 has nicer preamps and is generally the way to go, but I do like that the fireface has it's inputs on the front of the unit.

I will want to house the ULN2 in a rack and getting to the back of it will be awkward. I will need to use both the mic and line inputs (not at the same time) - does anyone have any recommendations for a patch bay type thing that will work with the uln so that I don't have to keep getting to the back of the unit?

Thanks.
